TENNESSEE STATE PARKS CHICKASAW STATE PARK

Chickasaw State Park

takes its name from the Chickasaw tribe of historic Native Americans. They used this area and all of West Tennessee as their hunting grounds up until their removal in 1837. Chickasaw State Park began in 1934 as a federally funded cooperation among the Works Progress Administration, the Civilian Conservation Corps, and the Resettlement Administration. Before being purchased by the federal government, this land had become a wasteland due to the strain of poor farming practices and irresponsible logging. The land came under the management of the State of Tennessee in 1939.

Cabins

Chickasaw offers 13 "AA" vacation cabins that sleep either 4 or 6 persons. Reservations are accepted up to one year in advance.

Meeting Rooms

Sagamore Lodge is an historic building that is utilized as a meeting facility. The building will seat 100 people. The building is popular for weddings, meetings, and reunions.

Restaurant

The park's 100-seat restaurant offers excellent Southern cuisine. It is open year-round on Thursday and Friday evenings and all day Saturday and Sunday. Call (731) 989-6807 for information.

Camping

Chickasaw State Park has 29 tent campsites and 52 RV campsites. Water is available at each tent campsite and water and electricity are available at each RV campsite. No reservations taken, all camping sites are first-come first-serve.
